Kickoff Dance Follows

By HANK CUNNINGHAM

San Francisco State will host what is reported to be the most powerful team in Fresno State history to kick off the 1956 football season. Starting time will be 8 p.m.

The Gators will field one of their heaviest backfields in recent years, averaging over 190 pounds per man. Veteran quarterback Dick Ellis and fullback Bob Rodrigo are back from last year with newcomers Ed Coats and Wayne Taylor completing the first string backfield. According to Coach Joe Verducci, the Gators have adequate depth in this department.

Lack of reserve power in the line appears to be SF State's greatest problem, Verducci stated. Among the returning lettermen of last year's championship squad are left tackle Floyd Peters, who was named to little All-Coast honors, and center Larry Conover, named most valuable player by his team mates.

The remaining positions in the line will be filled by Leander Murphy and Bob Barron at ends, Jack La Chapelle at left tackle, and Roy Nonella and Tony Fardella at the guard posts.

Heavy, Fast Line

Drawing from a 76 man turnout, the Bulldogs boast not only a heavy, fast line but an experienced, well-balanced backfield.

Fresno Coach Clark Van Galder has a combination of speed and power in halfback Ed Hicks, 6 foot, 1 inch, 205 pound transfer from Yuba College capable of completing the 100 yard dash in 9.6.

Dean Philpott, 190 pound fullback who gained 527 yards in only seven out of ten games, will also see action. Quarterback Fred Bristrick, right halfback Duke Snider, veterans of the 1954 season and left halfback Demar Lewis will fill the remaining position.

Added power at fullback will be provided by George Van Zant, formerly of Long Beach Junior College. Van Zant is 6 feet, 1 one inch tall and weighs 210 pounds.

In the line, ends Rod Galloway and Darryl Rogers, tackles Bill Harvey and Al Kirchhoff, guards Ed Stevens and Julius Dominici, and center Don Kloppenburg are expected to start.

"In spite of our lack of depth, our first club is improved over last year's squad. We"ll be playing on our home field and we should give them a good battle," Verducci declared.

Sigma Pi Sigma, Bib 'N Tucker to Sponsor Dance

"Kickoff-Dance," the first on-campus dance this semester, will be held tonight from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Women's Gym, immediately following the SF State-Fresno football game.

The dance is the tenth annual affair sponsored by the members of Sigma Pi Sigma with Bib 'N Tucker sorority as co-sponsors.

Tickets for the social event are $1.50 per couple and $1 for students going stag. Tickets have been on sale this week from members of Sigma Pi Sigma and Bib 'N Tucker, and can also be purchased at the door tonight.

Music for the dance will be provided by Howard Fredric and his Band of Gold orchestra. Fredic is an SF State alumnus.

Campus Organizations Roster Cards Available, Must File by Sept 30

An official list of organizations with on-campus status is to be made on September 30, 1955. In order for an organization to be included in this list, a roster of officers for the fall semester must be filed.

Presidents of all student organizations are requested to pick up Organization Cards at either the Associated Students Business Office, Hut T-1, or the Activities Counselor's Office, room 168A in the Administration Building. These cards should be completed and returned as soon as possible.

Float Entry Wins

San Francisco State's contribution to the tenth annual Berkeley football festival parade, a float depicting the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco's celebrated cable cars, received the second place float award last Friday night.

Leo McClatchy Will Speak At ACSCI Meeting

Leo McClatchy, full time instructor in the Business Department and practicing lawyer, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Association of California State College Instructors on Thursday, September 29.

The purpose of McClatchy's brief speech will be to inform the association's members about the problem of integration.

McClatchy has worked on the problem of integration of Social Security and State employees retirement system, upon which all State employees must vote.

Earl Chapman, a State official, will also speak on this subject on October 24.

STUDENT NOTICE ON PARKING

Students of the college are again parking in restricted zones in Stonestown and Parkmerced, particularly along Buckingham Way and in the commercial lots of Stonestown. These areas are classified as private parking zones and are not for student parking, according to a student notice received this week from Lyle M. Nelson, director of the office of Public Information here.

The College maintains a large parking lot on the west side of the campus which is especially for student use, Nelson said. This lot is reached from Lake Merced Boulevard and has a capacity of 884 cars.

Co-operation of all students has been requested. All student cars parked in the Stonestown and Parkmerced areas will be towed away and impounded and owners will then be required to pay all fees prior to the release of any impounded vehicle.

Registration Up Over Expectations

Registration for this fall semester has exceeded the total once considered the capacity for San Francisco State College, according to Dean John Bergstresser.

The estimate last April was that the campus could only handle 7983 students. Total enrollment for the fall semester is 7995, 17 more students than the estimated capacity.

Noting that, " . . . this is far and away the biggest enrollment in the history of State," Dean Bergstresser added that there are now 576 more students enrolled this semester than there were a year ago.

The total registration last year was 7379 students.

Regular students now number 5137 as compared with last year's 4757. Limited students numbered 2818. There were 2622 limited students enrolled last fall.

STUTTER?

Therapeutic classes for people who stutter will be offered this semester on Tuesday evenings, 7 p.m. to 9:45 p.m., by Dr. Leon Lassers, professor of education.

The class. unscheduled as yet, will be a non-credit course, and no fee will be charged.

Problems of stuttering will be discussed, and there will be individual and group therapy. The class is part of clinical training for students of the college working in Speech Therapy.

Those individuals interested in taking the course should contact Dr. Lassers in room 104 of the Education Building, between the hours of 1 and 2 p.m. daily.

London Poet Reads Here September 30

Tambimuttu, noted editor of Poetry London will give two readings of his works Thursday September 29, in room 109, Arts and Industries Building at 8 p.m. Admission free.

Frosh, Fun Nite Free 'Sock Hop' Set Tomorrow

A full evening of activity is in the offing for incoming Freshmen, according to Vince Rafello, activities commissioner, who has declared tomorrow evening as Frosh Fun Nite.

Designed to start Freshmen and transfer students off on a friendly note, Fun Nite will feature relay games, college songs and yells, and a picnic dinner (bring a bag dinner) to be held on the football field commencing at 6 p.m.

The outdoor activities will be brought into the Women's Gym at 9 p.m. when an informal dance will be held until midnight. Theme of this semester's Registration Dance will be "The Sock Hop." The event, the only free dance held during the semester, is sponsored by the ASSFCS. Charlie Stern and his popular orchestra will provide the dance music.

"Come on out, check your shoes, and dance. Get acquainted with other newcomers to the college, as well as with the studentbody officers," Rafello and his committee said.

Special Election Due October 6, 7

The date for the forthcoming special election to fill vacant class offices were announced by the Board of Directors at the regular weekly meeting Tuesday.

The election, scheduled for Thursday and Friday, October 6 and 7, will be for the following class offices:

Senior Class: Vice-President;

Junior Class Meeting

Meeting of the Junior Class will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Gator Swamp, Dan Hickey, president of the class announced this week.

Students interested in parties and other activities planned by the Junior Class are urged to attend the meeting. All class officers should attempt to be present at the meeting, Hickey added.

Marshall Scholarships Available

As an expression of the United Kingdom's gratitude for the generous and far-sighted Program for European recovery, twelve Marshall Scholarships at British Universities are offered annually by the British Government to United States graduate students.

The two-year scholarships are tenable at any university in the United Kingdom. The value of a Marshall Scholarship is approximately $560. In addition, Marshall Scholars receive their transportation to and from their universities in the United Kingdom and do not have to pay United Kingdom income tax on their scholarship.

Qualifications

The awards are made to students of either sex, who must be citizens of the United States. Candidates must be under 28 years of age on October 1 in the year in which the award will be taken up, and must be graduates of a degree-granting college or university in the United States. Scholars are selected for distinction of intellect and character as evidenced both by scholastic attainment and by other activities and achievements. Preference is given to candidates who combine high academic ability with the capacity to play an active part in the United Kingdom university to which they go.

Students interested in applying for a Marshall Scholarship and who desire further information about them should contact Dean Wells in the Administration Building as soon as possible.

Applications for awards to be taken on in 1956 must be in the hands of the appropriate regional committee by October 15, 1955. Successful candidates will be notified of their appointments in the spring of 1956.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR: Well, we're back to the old routine. Not only is it hard to find a space to park the jalopy near the campus, it's impossible. And while we're at it, we note that the little men who turn the sprinklers on during the morning fog waves are once again at the helm. It's good to be back, fellas.

EDITORIAL

Shortage of space in a publication—due to heavy ad loads and other mechanical problems—is the bane of every editor's existence. We find we're no exception.

Recently we came across a poem published in The Griffin magazine, and finding it to be remarkably amusing, wrote to the editors for permission to reprint it. We were not disappointed. Rather than bypass the opportunity of printing this—and we certainly have no room for it on the feature page, thanks to the Anglo Bank and Philip Morris—we hereby relinquish our editorial space in order to do so. Many thanks go to Helen Puner and the editors of The Griffin magazine for the following.

SF Poet to Start SFSC Workshop

A course for those interested in the writing, or more intelligent reading of poetry will begin on September 28. The course, "Workshop in Poetry," English e187.1, will be taught by Jack Gilbert, San Francisco poet and Mark Linenthal, instructor in Language Arts.

A unique feature of the Workshop will be the planned occasional participation of poets who have read under the auspices of the Poetry Center.

Fee of $7.50 per semester includes membership in the Poetry Cnter and admission to all events and activities. Credit for the course will be one semester unit.

Enrollment may be made at the first class meeting, room 104, Arts and Industries Building. No prerequisites are needed.

Wage-Hour Investigator Positions Open Now

A civil service examination for career appointment to positions of Wage-Hour Investigator has been announced by the Board of Examiners for the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions of the Department of Labor, 6300 Sansome Street, San Francisco.

The duties of a Wage-Hour Investigator involve contacting business firms to determine compliance with federal wages and hours laws. The salary is $4525 per year to start.

Special Election

Junior Class: Secretary - Treasurer; and Sophomore Class: Vice - President, Secretary-Treasurer; and Freshman Class: President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer.

Two representatives will also be elected, a representative for over 60 units and two representatives for under 32 units.

Petitions for class officers may be obtained at the Associated Students Business Office, Hut T-1. Candidates for offices other than the Freshman Class must have at least a 1.0 grade point average.

The Board of Directors also approved the following appointments:

To the Board of Governors: Dick Lane, Dave Kashubeck, George McClellan, and Bob Long.

To the Board of Athletic Control: Edwitt Smith.

To the Board of Control: Paula Wright, Thomas Harris, and Frank Lagene. Alternate members: Roy Powley and Robert Hart.

There were no appointments to the Board of Publications.

Applications for appointment to the Board of Publications are still desired. Applications may be obtained in the Associated Students Business Office, Hut T-1.

Industrial Films Planned Here

A series of films, entitled Know Your Industries, will be presented by the Industrial Arts Forum. The films, featuring interesting aspects of modern industrial life, will be shown in room 109, Arts and Industries Building.

The Industrial Arts Forum welcomes student and faculty members who are interested in any phase of Industrial Arts.

The results of a recent election of Forum officers for the fall semester were: F. Reese, president; R. Harris, vice-president; M. Nicole, recording secretary; Jack Dieker, corresponding secretary; B. Unsworth, treasurer; and J. Yates, sgt.-at-arms. Sponsors for the Forum are Dr. D. W. Nichols and Miss Mary Margaret Scobey.

RETURNING VETERAN

During the fall practice season last week, Coach Joe Verducci found himself a badly needed second string center.

The new man is 205-pound Bob Muster who joined the equad following a three year hitch in the army. Bob played for the Gators last in 1951 as fullback.

"Because we have a top fullback in Bob Rodrigo (he was an all-conference player last year), we decided to try Muster at center during yesterday's dfensive workout,'" Verducci said. "He proved himself a natural at the position."

With Muster back, the Gator defense should be strong with the added ability of end Bob Barron, Bob Rodrigo, and Larry Conover, number one center.

As for me, all I know is that I know nothing.—Socrates

Nineteen-year old Myra Thompson (left), SF State coed, covered the six and one-half miles from Phelan Beach here to Shell Beach in Sausalito last Saturday in two hours, 52 minutes. Miss Thompson, winner of the women's division in last year's Treasure Island race, was accompanied in a row-boat by her coach, Mark Graham of Mission Pool. Performing on the Sausalito Regatta Days celebration program, she used a 55 strokes per minute cadence in 56-degree water and was bothered only by rough water at the start of the course and by an adverse rip tide under the Golden Gate bridge. Miss Thompson also swam from Sausalito to Aquatic Park recently. Pictured at the right is pretty Joan Winther, former State student. Both girls belong to the SF Recreation and Park Swimming Club.

Pacini's Prospectus Predicts Gators Strong for Season

By LE ROY PACINI

(Ed. Note: This is the first of two articles by Le Roy Pacini on the prospects of the 1955 football team. This week's article will deal with the general prospectus and Gator backfield.)

Head football coach Joe Verducci faces this season with the paradox of having what he terms an improved club over a '54 team which emerged champ while engaging in the toughest schedule ever played by a Gator team, but which may not match last year's 8-2 record.

"Excluding injuries to a few key men," says Verducci, "The 1955 Gators will field their best starting 11 in history—and I say that aware of the fact that last year's club broke the all time State seasonal ground gaining and point making record (2085 yards, 253 points) and ranked high nationally in total defense.

"Of course, there are qualifications. I mentioned our starting 11 only, not our lack of reserves, especially at end and center. We may not match the record of last year's squad because we open against a Fresno State team that has probably the finest material in its history, plus the advantage of spring practice. We also meet great small college ball clubs in Cal Poly, San Diego State, and Redlands.

"We're hoping our lack of line reserve is balanced somewhat by our wealth of backfield strength. We lost plenty of speedsters from last year, but have picked up the biggest, hardest running unit I've ever had. We're rated co-favorite with Chico."

Position Analysis

Dick "Hoot" Ellis (Jr., 185) holds the fort here, and despite nine years experience in organized ball, this may be the ex-Marine's year to hoot. Slowdown by a leg injury in midseason last year, he still managed to pass for 773 yards. Gone is Dick Jackstadt, his able replacement of last year, so it will be up to frosh Marsh Krueter (155- of Lowell High and soph Larry Walter (150), should anything happen to Ellis. Frosh Manual Perry (160)0 of Ukiah, is also in the picture.

The Gators sustained heavy losses from their talented array of speedy halves of last year, due to graduation, service calls, and injuries. Lost are Harry Bremmond and Dick Nave, two of the biggest ground gainers in State history, as well as Walt Bremmond, Jim Boggan, Bob Springer and Kenny Foehr, not one of whom averaged less than 4.8 yards per carry in '54.

Service Returnee

As Verducci stated, however, the new half backs are bigger and better than ever. Running first from the left half slot at present is Ed Coats (Jr., 205) a service returnee who won his Gator letter in '51. Fighting right behind Coats are Johnny Sochor (Soph, 165) who ran at a 4.2 clip last year and is regarded by Verducci as the only genuine breakaway threat on the team, and Johnny Fortson (Sr., 190) back from the service and a regular State fullback in '52.

Wayne Taylor (Frosh, 190), a CCSF transfer and a prep Nebraska all State, has right half at the moment, but may be pressed by service returnees Fil Julabel (Jr., 180), an outstanding CCSF transfer in '52 who was drafted before he could get into action, and tough Bill Conley (Soph. 170).

Fullback will be manned by Bob Rodrigo, regarded by Verducci as the "new George Maderos of the Conference." Although hampered by a pulled leg muscle last season which forced him to miss three games entirely and play only four anywhere near full efficiency, averaged 3.5 yards per carry,

Days of Old

By DAVE KRUG

San Francisco State's history on the gridiron is not as illustrious as one may be led to believe, judging from last year's fine record. The Golden Gators, as a matter of fact, had their beginning in the most humble manner.

The Golden Gaters, who borrowed their nickname from the Golden Gate Bridge, began tossing pigskins in 1931. The team nickname was modified when the school decided that an alligator made a better mascot than would a Gate.

S.F.'s first football game was a hard-fought. roc'em-sock'em, noting - to - nothing tie against the world's toughest of foes, the Indians of Lowell High.

Originally, the Gaters wore Green and Gold as their colors. A conflict with the University of San Francisco arose, however, and it was pointed out that Green and Gold were the humble hues of the droopy Dons. State backed out gracefully, picked up purple somewhere along the way, and let USF keep their moldy green.

State's first touchdown was tallied in that successful 1931 season in a losing effort to Galileo High School, 6 to 13. The final game of the season marked the local's first victory, a 25-0 thumping of Continuation High School.

David J. Cox, coach of that initial squad, continued as coach until after the 1934 season. State's' outstanding player of 1934 was Bill Harkness, and coach of this year's team.

Hal Hardin and Dan Farmer took over the coaching chores in 1935, and the following year, Roberts Stadium became the Gators' home field. The Golden Gators traveled to their first out-of-State game against Linfield College in Oregon to climax the 1937 season. Linfield won out, 19-0.

Dick Boyle, former All-America halfback at St. Mary's was appointed head coach for the 1939 season. The first football fatality came against Cal Poly on October 27, 1940, when a head injury caused the death of tackle John Tandy.

In 1942 Ray Kaufman took the helm as State's mentor, and in 1945 Dan Farmer became the coach.

State's first victory at the present campus was a 13-7 triumph over Placer J.C. in 1946 under Coach Dick Boyle. The new field was officially named Cox Stadium in October, 1948.

State played in the Fruit Bowl game on December 5, 1948, at Kezar Stadium and lost to Southern University of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, by a score of 30-0.

Today, State is the defending champion of the Far Western Conference. Such teams as Nevada, Cal Poly, and Fresno State appear on the schedule. This is certainly a far cry from that first game with Lowell High School.

BILL CONLEY INJURED

Bill Conley, veteran sophomore player, was injured last Thursday night in the first practice game of the season against Sacramento JC at Sacramento. He was injured in the third quarter and will not appear in tonight's game, but is expected back within a month.

Prof. Twillbrook, The Adventures of

By HAROLD PAINTER

It was a sunny Monday morning. And Professor Twillbrook was five minutes late.

The way to the bus was apparently pleasant. The streets were shaded by tall elms; the houses set well back on an avenue of spacious lawns and bright shrubbery, and the air was cool and undisturbed.

The Professor walked close to the curb, avoiding the shrubs and flowers at his side—as though some unseen peril hid itself in the shrubbery. And indeed there was.

On several occasions he had been shot with a plunger arrow by an archer who concealed himself in a jungle of lilacs and chrysanthemums and appeared with savage spontaneity on no morning in particular. The morning before, the Professor had escaped an arrow by dodging behind an elm, where he was kept pinned until his attacker tired and his bus had left.

A small, boyish voice had shouted a decisive "no" in response to the Professor's request for a powwow in the manner of Chief Joseph or anyone who might satisfy the boy's unusual imagination. The boy's plans were totally obscure, and he was apparently satisfied with shooting the Professor whenever the urge possessed him.

Childen are unmercifully capricious, thought the Professor as he boarded his bus unattacked that morning. Their outlook on life is acutely distorted.

The Professor looked up from his morning edition of the Daily Clairvoyant at two staring eyes. A boy's head had thrust itself up in the seat front of him, and the entire boy was rigid with concentrated curiosity—as though the Professor had suddenly materialized from a wisp of smoke from the ventilator.

The Professor returned to his Clairvoyant, raising his paper to obscure the boy's face behind a photograph of three cows in a pasture of wild flowers and blossoming clover, which he gazed at with idyllic satisfaction until two small hands clenched the top of the paper, tearing the scene from out of his sight with torrential speed. Twillbrook glared at the boy between the separated halves of his paper. And the boy watched with unwavering interest while he folded his paper carefully into his briefcase, crossed his arms stiffly over his chest, and lost himself in the heavy morning traffic.

The boy turned his gaze on the Professor's nose, which occupied his attention for fully ten minutes, causing the Professor to smile dissuasively with calculated benevolence—to which the boy responded by first clouding over with suspicion, and then, as the Professor's smile weakened, by striking him on the head with his lunch bucket. Twillbrook's smile disappeared like a shattered window.

The boy's arm drew back for a second blow, which the Professor was able to prevent by dashing out the side exit, taking the boy's lunch bucket with him. He walked the remaining five blocks to the University, feeling he had struck a major blow against childish imagination.

The following morning, the Professor left home twenty minutes early and concealed himself behind an azalea bush with a handful of plunger arrows and a small bow, waiting the appearance of his assailant, whom he was determined to discourage by treating him to some of his own medicine. Once and forever, he was going to eliminate the capricious perils of the morning.

In a few minutes the Professor straightened up with the feeling of sudden good fortune usually experienced by government hunters who have suddenly come upon a bear that is enjoying a freshly killed lamb. The Professor had caught sight of a crawling figure behind a high stretch of shrubbery.

He crept within range, and when the crawling figure exposed part of itself in a break in the shrubbery, fired an ar-

CREATIVE ARTS

By PATTY MORAN

Special hours for the Creattive Arts box office were announced this week by Jim Keolker, Press and Radio Representative for the Creative Arts Division.

To enable students to make reservations and purchase tickets to the numerous performances, the box office will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. daily, Keolker said. He also added that phone-in reservations may be obtained by calling JUniper 6-3536. or by using the college extension 440.

The box office is located within the foyer of the Little Theater in the Creative Arts building, and the office is also known as CA11, Keolker said.

ANYONE FOR FOOTBALL?

Pancho Sigafoos, pale and sensitive, first saw Willa Ludovic, lithe as a hazel wand and fair as the morn, outside a class in money and banking. "Let us not hem and haw," said Pancho to Willa. "I adore you."

"Thanks, hey," said Willa, blushing prettily. "What position do you play?"

"Position?" said Pancho, looking at her askance. (The askance is a ligament just behind the ear.)

"On the football team," said Willa.

"Football!" cried Pancho, his lip curling in horror. "Football is violence, and violence is the death of the mind. I am not a football player. I am a poet."

"So long, mac," said Willa.

"Wait!" cried Pancho, clutching her lissome young forearm.

She placed her foot on his pelvis and wrenched herself free.

"I only go with football players," she said and walked, shimmering, into the setting sun.

Pancho went to his room and lit a cigarette and pondered his vexing problem. What kind of cigarette did Pancho light? Why, Philip Morris, of corris!

Philip Morris is always welcome, but never more than when you are weary and sore beset. When a fellow needs a friend, when the heart is dull and the blood runs like sorghum, when darkness prevails, then, then above all, is the time for the mildness and gentleness that only Philip Morris can provide.

Pancho Sigafoos, his broken psyche welded, his fevered brow cooled, his synapses restored after smoking a gentle Philip Morris, came swiftly to a decision. Though he was rather small for football (an even four feet) and somewhat overweight (370 pounds) he tried out for the team—and tried out with such pluck and perseverance that he made it.

Pancho's college opened the season against the Manhattan School of Mines. The Miners were always a mettlesome foe, but this year, strengthened by four exchange students from Gibraltar who had been suckled by she-apes, they were especially formidable. By the middle of the second quarter, the Miners had wrought such havoc upon Pancho's team that there was nobody left on the bench but Pancho. And when the quarterback was sent to the infirmary with his head driven into his ribcage, the coach had no choice but to put Pancho in.

Pancho's team-mates were not conspicuously cheered as the little fellow took his place in the huddle. "Gentlemen," said Pancho, "some of you may regard poetry as sissy stuff, but now in our most trying hour I can think of no words more apt than these lines from Milton's Paradise Lost: 'All is not lost; the unconquerable will and study of revenge, immortal hate, and courage never to submit or yield!' "

So stirred was Pancho's team by this fiery exhortation that they threw themselves into the fray with utter abandon.

As a consequence, the entire squad was hospitalized before the half. The college was forced to drop football. Willa Ludovic, not having any football players to choose from, took up with Pancho and soon discovered the beauty of his soul. Today they are seen everywhere together—dancing, holding hands, smoking, smooching.

Smoking what? Why, Philip Morris, of corris!

The makers of Philip Morris, who bring you this column each week, remind you that the perfect companion to watching a football game is today's gentle Philip Morris.

Checks never get tired

But they don't stand in line to pay bills, either.

If you'd like to pay by check but don't have to write a great many checks each month, open an Anglo Bank Special Checking Account. You need only put in enough money to take care of the checks you intend to write. The checks cost just $1.25 for 10 or $2.50 for 20, complete with a handsome checkbook.

Another nice thing about a checking account is you can bank by mail. Anglo pays the postage both ways. You'll like the way Anglo does business.

row with surprising accuracy. An instant later, Mrs. Strewpenny, distant neighbor of the Twillbrooks, apeared from behind her shrubs, lawn clippers in hand, staring vacantly at Twillbrook, who was on his hands and knees, peering through the hole in the shrubbery next her feet.

"I can't see you," shouted the Professor through the hole, "but come back tomorrow, and and I will give you more of the same."

"Don't you dare," said Mrs. Strewpenny, pulling the plunger arrow from her elbow, "or I shall call the police."

CLUB CHAT

with CAROL FISHER

Beginning with this Fall semester, the Gater is running a column devoted especially to club news. We want to know who your officers are, when and where you meet, how many members you have, and news of your social and business meetings. There are 66 active clubs on the campus and we would like to hear from all of them sooner or later.

Instead of putting each club news item in a separate story, all the announcements will appear in this space each week. Deadline for news items is each Friday at 12 noon, for the following week's edition.

Sigma Beta Music Club

Fall 1955 officers are Joan Hullt, president; Richard Mazon, vice-president; Sally Olds, recording secretary; Joan Holcomb, corresponding secretary; Marilyn Follari, treasurer; Audrey Mulhaus and Valerie Rees members-at-large. Students interested in any scope of music appreciation are invited to contact officers concerning membership.

Christian Science Organization

The group will hold a reception on Monday, October 3 from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Student Union Building, to which all interested students are invited. A testimonial meeting was held Tuesday evening at 2658 18th Avenue. New officers are Peggy Dunan, president; Jane Lilienthal, secretary-treasurer and Tom Disher, club reader. The Christian Science Organization is one of nine interfaith groups active on the campus.

Newman Club

The college Newman Club will present its traditional Open House from 8 to 11 p.m. on Thursday, September 29 at the Forest Lodge, 266 Laguna Honda Boulevard. Theme of the Open House is "An Evening with Glenn Miller," under the direction of sargeant-at-arms Norm Tidd. Admission to festivities is free; dress is sport. Open to Catholic and non-Catholic students, Newman Club has a threefold purpose: social, educational and religious. All interested students are invited.

Delta Phi Gamma

Delta Phi Gamma fraternity and Alpha Chi Alpha sorority will jointly present their Fifth Annual "Night in Wonderland" next Friday night, September 30 immediately following the SFSC-University of Nevada football game. Walt Talleson and his seven piece band will provide music. Dress is sport; admission is $1 stag and $1.50 drag, in the Women's gymnasium. Door prizes consisting of a dinner for two at Rickey's Red Chimney will be awarded. The Campus King will also be crowned. All sororities are eligible to nominate candidates. Students may vote at a booth on campus near the Student Union Building.

the chunky 200 pound junior was the term's third leading scorer, completed his only attempted pass, punted for a 34.1 average, kicked off, returned kickoffs for an 11.3 average, made good on 13 of 16 attempted conversions (his last 10 in succession), and played a particularly effective game as line backer.

Sigma Delta Nu

New officers of the Home Economics Club are Dorothy Clement, president; Elyse Dukatz, vice-president; Barbara Roberts, secretary; Sigrid Kerber, treasurer and Miss Grace Diem, club adviser. The first executive meeting of the semester was held September 15 after registration to plan semester events. Students interested in joining Sigma Delta Nu are urged to contact Miss Diem or Miss Clement.

Gamma Chi sorority will hold their open house and tea on September 29th at 1525 - 34th Avenue, near Kirkham at 7:30 p.m. All girls at State are cordially invied.
